Hortfunde der frühen Bronzezeit in Böhmen (Praha 2005)

von Václav Moucha

Best.-Nr. 6-1-05, 35,00 €

Inhalt: The volume presents hoards of metal objects of the Early Bronze Age in Bohemia. It concerns the Únětice culture, where the deposition of bronze artefacts was frequent in the later phase. The hoard finds are classified according to Paul Reinecke's chronological system (phases A1, A2, A2/B1). The structure of the hoards reflects the position of Bohemia on the boundary line of two different production zones: the southern (Danubian) and the northern (the territory of the „northern“ Únětice culture). It is difficult to tell whether the hoards have a profane or ritual character ; a situation made worse by the frequently inadequate information on find circumstances. Over 2000 objects are analysed and the majority illustrated. The text is supplemented by tables presenting detailed data on the artefacts (metal composition, dimensions, weight etc Archeologie pravěkých Čech. Vols. 1-8. Series (Praha 2007-20089

Editors: Jiráň, Luboš – Venclová, Natalie

Best.-Nr. 6-1-06, 135,00 € (Einzelband, 19,00 €)

Inhalt: These eight volumes represent the most extensive outline published until now of Czech prehistory from the Palaeolithic to the Migration period. It summarizes the present state of the art, shows different approaches to the study of Bohemian prehistory and introduces a new review of archaeological data and its interpretation. The first Volume presents archaeological theories and methods, the natural context of archaeological periods, the anthropology of prehistoric populations, and deals with archaeological heritage management. Volumes 2 to 8 are dedicated to the systematic presentation of individual time periods. Their formal structure is similar, but the theoretical and methodological approaches differ according to the concepts preferred by the editors and authors of the individual volumes.

Hrsg. Klápště, Jan

Best.-Nr. 6-2-14, 12,50 €

Inhalt: 24 papers from the conference Ruralia III held at the National University of Ireland at Maynooth 1999. The main theme of the conference was “Dispersed and nucleated medieval rural settlement”.

302 pp. with figs., English, German and French.

Supplementum 16

Die Höhensiedlungen der Hallstatt- und Latenezeit in Westböhmen (Praha 2004)

von Chytráček, Miroslav - Metlička, Milan, mit Beiträgen von P. Pokorný und R. Kyselý

Best.-Nr. 6-2-16, 42,00 €

Inhalt: 51 sites with Iron Age (HaC-LTD) finds have been analyzed in Western Bohemia: 31 fortified sites, 16 unfortified sites and 4 sites with wooden enclosures situated on hilltops, spurs, or river terraces. The catalogue contains plans, drawings and photographic documentation of the sites and finds. The exact dating within the periods HaC-LTD is based on ceramic complexes as well as on finds of metal brooches and other artifacts. Spatial distribution of hilltop settlements is studied in relation to the natural environment and the settlement in their neighborhood. Analyses of evidence for agriculture in the region were carried out by P. Pokorný and osteological research by R. Kyselý.

303 pp. with figs., German

Supplementum 17

Water Management in Medieval Rural Economy: Les usages de l'eau en milieu rural au Moyen Âge - Rurality V (Praha 2005)

Hrsg. Jan Klápště

Best.-Nr. 6-2-17, 20,00 €

Inhalt: The 2003 "Rurality" (Jean-Marie Pesez conferences on medieval rural archaeology) conference held in France (Lyon/Villard-Sallet) focused on the various aspects of handling water in the rural environment. Contributors addressed issues such as water supply to the settlements and agricultural areas, drainage of the extensive landscape units, and exploitation of the water energy for corn mills and mines. The fifth volume of Rurality further examines this significant area of contemporary European medieval archaeology and contains articles from over 40 researchers from several European countries and includes discussions of the Syrian and Moroccan problems.

Supplementum 19

Akropole na hradišti Závist v 6.-4. stol. př. Kr. Akropolis von Závist im 6.-4. Jh. v. Chr (Praha 2008)

von Drda, Petr – Rybová, Alena

Best.-Nr. 6-2-19, 25,00 €

This publication summarizes the vast investigation of the hill top of the early Celtic hillfort of Závist (Central Bohemia) in the years 1963-1989. Four main building phases have been reconstructed, the chronology established and the area interpreted as sacred place. The analysis points to the site's outstanding position in Bohemia and proves its contacts to neighbouring as well as distant regions – including the Mediterranean. To the textual part a catalogue of the finds and 5 appendices with the results of scientific analyses (human and animal bones, plant remains, metallography) are added. An extensive summary and a complete translation of the concluding part close the book. The publication has been supported by the Grant Agency of the Czech Academy of Sciences.

132 pp. with figs., CD with 3D animation. Czech with German summary.

Supplementum 20

Pravěké kulturní souvrství jako archeologický pramen. Urgeschichtliche Kulturschicht als archäologische Quelle, Prague 2008

von Ernée, Michal

Best.-Nr. 6-2-20, 19,00 €

Inhalt: This work focuses on prehistoric stratigraphic sequences as archaeological source. The first part summarizes and generalizes the history and results of the investigation of prehistoric and early medieval stratigraphic sequences from Bohemia and beyond. The second part considers the relation between settlement layer and the micro-relief, using the example of Prague 9-Miškovice. The third part is devoted to the analysis of the detailed excavation in 2001 of Late and Final Bronze Age settlement layers in Prague 10-Záběhlce. The author emphasizes the sometimes paradigmatically based dismissive relation to this type of archaeological source, the problems of excavations and risks at their interpretation.

162 pp. with figs., tabs. and graphs. Czech with German summary.

Archeologie středověkého domu v Mostě (čp. 226)

Hrsg. Klápště, Jan

Best.-Nr. 6-4-04, 30,00 €

Contents: 1. Introduction. 2. The nature of the field situation and the relevant finds assemblage. 3. The testimony of the artefacts. 4. The testimony of the ecofacts. 5. The mirror of archaeological excavation. 6. Report on the life in a medieval townhouse. 7. Catalogue of the excavations and artefact evidence. - The results from the excavation of an area covering 1500 square metres in the medieval centre of Most, carried out in 1976-77, is discussed. This was one of the two larger excavations that archaeologists were permitted in the town, which was then completely destroyed by brown coal surface mining. The volume offers an analysis of individual types of artefacts and ecofacts by 14 authors. The concluding chapters attempt a reconstruction of the archaeologically recognized reality in its relation to the historical evidence.

Stará Boleslav. Přemyslovský hrad v raném středověku

Hrsg. Boháčová, Ivana

Best.-Nr. 6-4-05, 30,00 €

Inhalt: Presentation of the results of the 1st period of processing of the rescue excavation's sources - determination of the major horizons of that site. Material culture and buildings characteristics incl. integral stone wall (with mortar binder) issue (testimony of ecofacts too). The first part of the presentation of the results of rescue excavations on an important, Early Medieval Přemyslid site. In addition to a large assemblage of artifacts and ecofacts, investigations yielded surprising evidence for the formation of the site, its sacral architecture and the evolution of its fortification system. Great attention was devoted to the pottery and its significance. The archaeological data are compared to historical issues which have hitherto been the preserve mainly of the written sources.

Solutio Hebdomadaria Pro Structura Templi Pragensis. Stavba svatovítské katedrály v letech 1372-1378. Díl I

von Marek Suchý

Best.-Nr. 6-7-05, 20,00 €

Inhalt: The main topic of the book is an analysis of building accounts from the years 1372-1378. Contrary to older literature the study treats the accounts as a homogeneous source where all the entries are related to each other. A systematical synchronic and diachronic collation of the records reveals interpretative limits of the source and enables to describe the building activities week by week. Besides the activities of different participating crafts, the accounts inform about prices of building materials, tools, salaries, currency rates, carrying capacity of carts, building terminology etc. With the help of other not only written sources, we get an overview over supplies of raw materials from Prague hinterland including information about interaction between different crafts employed at the construction site and economical aspects of medieval building.

Castrum Pragense 6 (Praha 2005)

Hrsg: Jana Maříková-Kubková

Best.-Nr. 6-7-06, 10,00 €

Inhalt: This volume contains eight contributions concerning the Prague castle. The opening paper is a yet unpublished report on the history of archaeological excavations of the Prague castle by I. Borkovský. The following two articles deal with the wall paintings of the St. George basilica (Z. Všetěčková) and of the St. Wenceslas chapel in the St. Vitus cathedral (M. Bartlová). J. Frolík and V. Siglová summarize the findings and preservation of the liturgical equipment, D. Foltýn and J. Maříková deal with the St. Thomas chapel during the Romanesque period of the St. Vitus cathedral. The volume also contains a preliminary report on the investigation of the Royal tomb (J. Maříková et al.), a review of the excavations in the „Prašný most“ area (G. Blažková-Dubská) and mortar analysis of the Virgin Mary church (A. Zeman et al.).

Kapitulní chrám sv. Petra a Pavla na Vyšehradě. Archeologický výzkum - The Capitular church of SS Peter and Paul at Vyšehrad. Archeological investigation (Praha 2004)

von Bořivoj Nechvátal

Best.-Nr. 6-8-14, 30,00 €

Inhalt: Excavations at the Capitular Church of SS Peter and Paul at Vyšehrad in Prague, the second most prominent basilica of the Přemyslid state, have been conducted by the Institute of Archaeology in Prague since 1966. The entire exterior ground area of the church was excavated from 1968-1991, while the interior of the contemporary church was investigated in 1981-1985. Seven construction periods were recorded, the oldest being romanesque from the times of the foundation of the church by the prince and first King of Bohemia, Vratislav II (1061-1092). The following reconstructions were held by Soběslav I, Eliška Přemyslovna, the last Přemyslid queen, and finally Charles IV. The last of the structural changes imprinted upon the church a High Gothic character which can be compared with the southern French basilicas (Toulouse, Narbonne). The volume not only summarizes the results of the archaeological investigation but also presents data gained by analyses of glass and tiles, and by anthropological, archaeozoological, petrological and dendrochronological research. 667 pp. with figs. and tabs., English and German summaries.

Počátky raného středověku v Čechách (Praha 2005)

von Martin Kuna et al.

Best.-Nr. 6-8-17, 20,00 €

Inhalt: This volume summarizes the results of a series of archaeological excavations carried out on the northern edge of Prague in Roztoky during 1980-1989. Among other finds a large agglomeration of settlement features from the 6th and 7th centuries AD has been discovered here. These finds belong to the so called Prague Culture which is believed to represent the earliest Slavic populations in Central Europe. The unusually high number of early medieval houses and their location on the floor of a deep canyon-like valley is to much extent enigmatic. During the following period all activities on the site terminated, one of the earliest medieval hillforts was, however, built on the opposite side of the river.

Nejstarší osídlení jižních Čech. Paleolit a Mesolit (Praha 2006)

Best.-Nr. 6-8-21, 19,00 €

Inhalt: The volume presents the first overview of the pre-Neolithic finds from South Bohemia. The catalogue of finds (S. Vencl, J. Michálek, J. Fröhlich) includes about 700 site records.

The prevalence of acid soils, negligible quaternary sedimentation as well as intensive denudation resulted in the limited preservation of the primary contexts. Partly preserved were only some of the sites within the time span from the Magdalenian up to the Mesolithic.

Attached are analyses by I. Horáček - P. Pokorný (Environmental background for the oldest settlement in South Bohemia), and A. Přichystal (Lithic raw materials of pre-Neolithic settlement in South Bohemia).

Velim - Violence and Death in Bronze Age Bohemia - The results of fieldwork 1992-95, with a consideration of peri-mortem trauma and deposition in the Bronze Age (Praha 2007) von Harding, Anthony - Šumberová, Radka - Knüsel, Christopher et al.

Best.-Nr. 6-8-24, 19,00 €

Inhalt: Velim (Central Bohemia) is one of the most important sites of the Bronze Age of Central Europe dating to the end of the Middle Bronze Age. Opinion has been divided between those who favour a ritual explanation of the site and those who see the extensive human skeletal material as resulting from a hostile attack. The present volume describes the investigations carried out between 1992 and 1995 by a British team. In addition to the presentation of the finds, there is an extensive discussion of the human and animal bone, with a consideration of its significance for our understanding of the treatment of the dead at Velim. Radiocarbon dating suggests a date for the transition to the Urnfield period earlier than traditionally accepted. The volume is a companion to that published in 2000 describing the Czech excavations between 1984 and 1995.

Březno und germanische Siedlungen der jüngeren Völkerwanderungszeit in Böhmen (Praha 2007)

von Ivana Pleinerová, mit Beiträgen von Radomír Pleiner und Zdeněk Tempír

Best.-Nr. 6-8-25, 22,00 €

The book consists of two parts. The first one deals with the settlement of Březno itself. Besides movable effects it concentrates on building features (pit houses, post hole plans, storage pits) and the settlement structure. Three areas can be distinguished in the ground plan, serving for manufacture, storage and dwelling. The basic unit of a Germanic settlement is represented by the irregular courtyard house, the so-called Haufenhof. Two units of that type were recorded in Březno. The settlement can be dated to the first half of the 6th cent. A.D., in absolute dating between 510 and 560 A.D. The second part of the book is dedicated to contemporary Germanic settlements in Bohemia. Their low number – 18 – corresponds to the situation in East Central Europe

Neolitické sídliště v Bylanech - základní databáze. Neolithic settlement at Bylany - essential database (Praha 2007)

von Květina Petr - Pavlů, Ivan

Best.-Nr. 6-8-26, 9,00 €

This publication summarizes the methodological and documentary basis used for processing and evaluating the materials from the Neolithic site of Bylany. It comprises large sets of data and information about the archaeological sources and their formal, symbolic and spatial attributes. Owing to the immense quantity of data collected over the forty years of archaeological research in Bylany, it proved necessary to create a central system allowing for effective use of the recorded data. This metadata manual, together with a compact set consisting of a database, graphic documentation and GIS map published on the enclosed digital data medium, should fulfill this purpose.

Hutnický region Říčansko (Praha 2008)

von Natalie Venclová et al.

Best.-Nr. 6-8-31, 19,00 €

Inhalt: The region at the eastern border of Prague provided data for the investigation of the relationship between iron production and settlement activities in the Iron Age, mainly in the Hallstatt, La Tene and Roman periods (ca. 8th cent. B.C. to 4th cent. A.D.). The volume comprising contributions by V. Čulíková, D. Dreslerová, M. Gregerová, M. Hložek, L. Kovačiková, R. Kyselý, M. Malkovský, F. Marek, L. Peške and J. Zavřel offers a catalogue of finds and sites, an archaeological evaluation of significant assemblages including macrobotanical and osteological analyses, and also a short survey of medieval finds. Natural scientific methods were applied to the study of iron ores and iron smelting products, and economical and ecological aspects of iron production were considered.
